Marie: Tomorrow I will visit my Taiwanese friend, Jack, and have dinner with his family. Is there anything that I need to know at the table?

Kyle: Sure. Don't stand your chopsticks in the bowl of rice. In Taiwan, if you do that, dead people might come here because they think the food is for them. So, put your chopsticks together on the table or on the chopstick rest when you finish eating.

Marie: In Japan, people do that too.

Kyle: That's true. Also, Taiwanese people, just like Japanese, hold the bowl to the mouth when they eat.

Marie: What else should I know?

Kyle: In Taiwan, the hosts may put food in their guests' bowls or ask them to eat more. They want to be good hosts by doing so. To be a good guest, eat a lot if you can. It shows you're enjoying the food. Remember all these, and your boyfriend's family will love you.

Marie: Jack is not my boyfriend. We're just friends.

Kyle: Yeah, right.
